FOREWORD

IN presenting this book to the students and friends of West Virginia Wesleyan College, we have endeavored to portray a little of the pathos and pleasures of the past year of college life. This book is a "War Issue," and therefore not as complete as former volumes of the Murmurmontis. At the opening of school last autumn it was decided, as a patriotic and conservative measure, not to publish the Murmurmontis. However, late this Spring, after the need for conservation became less, and responding to the demand of the student body for a publication, we undertook this task. To those who have helped us we extend our heartiest appreciation. ¶ And now, if it meets with your approval we will be satisfied. But if it does not, please do not consign us to the keeping of "his satanic majesty," for then you may have us with you forever.

SAMUEL J. Mac WATTERS, A. M., Litt. D.

AS AN EXPRESSION OF OUR LOVE, WE, THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY, DEDICATE THIS VOLUME TO PROFESSOR SAMUEL J. Mac WATTERS, A TRUE FRIEND OF OUR COLLEGE

"BRAEDOON"

The home of Dr. MacWatters on the Merrimac River, Mass., where many of his musical compositions were written

The Glory of the West Virginia Hills

In Memoriam

West Virginia Methodism has reason for sacred pride in the Wesleyan men who have gone forth to war for God. Six of them have made the supreme sacrifice.

Lieut. Roy E. Parrish, whose home was at Clarksburg and who graduated at Wesleyan in the class of 1908, fell in action on the Western Front on July 22, 1918.

Capt. Hoddie Wilbur Daniels, M. R. C., who attended Wesleyan in the days of the old seminary, was killed in action on July 19, 1918.

Chaplain Frank Wittkamp, of Strathmere, N. J., who graduated in the class of 1917, fell as a victim of scarlitina, Somewhere in France, on Christmas Day, 1918.

Lieut. S. P. Hoskins, who attended Wesleyan in 1907, was killed in action between Imecourt and Buyancy, France, and was buried at Imecourt on November 2, 1918.

Aubrey Carl Smith, of Lost Creek, who graduated in 1918, fell as a victim of Spanish Influenza at Camp Meade, Maryland, on October 7, 1918.

Dorsey O. Warner, of West Union, who attended Wesleyan in 1912, fell in action Somewhere in France on August 1, 1918.

No words of praise can either add luster to their glorious deeds or fittingly express the affection and honor in which they are held at Wesleyan. Their names will stand first on the bronze tablets in our Hall of Fame in the new library building.

IF YE BREAK FAITH WITH US WHO DIE

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

—Lieut.-Col. John McCrae.
(Died in Service.)

THE WESLEYAN ANSWER

Departed ones who seem so nigh,
Your valor calls us from the sky.
  Though mortal flesh to wounds must yield,
  And forms must sleep in Flanders fields,
Your souls with God shall never die.

Destruction's dreaded work is done,
Your courage crushed the haughty Hun,—
  Dispelled forever from the light
  The thought of power ruling right,
And ye are heroes, every one.

We take the torch from hands that fall
We dedicate to God our all,
  Resolved to emulate the life
  Of you who fought in glory's strife
'Gainst darkness and the fears that thrall.

Shall Wesleyan break faith with you?
Shall actions prove our vows untrue?
  Shall we from men your light withhold
  Through love of self or sordid gold?
Then were we as the Huns who slew.

Your memory now that causes tears
To fill our eyes, in future years
  Will challenge men, inspire, call forth
  The nobler self, the real worth,
And give men triumph over fears,
  At Wesleyan.

UNDER the guidance of Doctor Fleming, Wesleyan has been steadily forging to the front. He successfully put over the endowment campaign and placed Wesleyan on a sound financial basis. At present he is engaged with a plan which, when completed, will mean that the College has a million dollar endowment. ¶ Dr. Fleming is loved by the entire student body and is always ready to lend a helping hand. He is an ideal College President.

WESLEYAN would not be Wesleyan without "Tommy," and one who graduates without having a class to him certainly misses something worth while. ¶ As Dean of the College he keeps things going in a way that is pleasant to all and is well loved by the student body.

John W. Meredith, A.B.
Moundsville, W. Va.

Moundsville High, '16; President Freshmen Class, '16-'17; President Sophomore Class, '17-'18; President Senior Class, '18-'19; Chrestomathean; Vice-President Chrestomathean, '18; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '16-'17; Glee Club; Business Manager Glee Club, '18-'19; Varsity Football, '16; Baseball, '17; Varsity Basketball, '19.

"Nothing save by the cross."

Not every class can boast of such a fine young man. He has been President for three successive years. John has worked hard since he came to Wesleyan, as is evidenced in the fact that he finished the College course in three years. In addition to his heavy school work, he has been actively engaged in nearly all of the school organizations and activities. He will enter Drew Theological Seminary next fall to pursue a post-graduate course in the School of Theology.

Beulah Holtz, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High, '14; Wesleyan Normal, '15; Chrestomathean; Y. W. C. A.; Pharos Staff; Secretary-Treasurer Junior Class, '18; Secretary Senior Class, '19; Girls' Basketball, '19.

"She has those graces that do not become old."
The beautiful in her smile is not photographed.

She is kind and sweet. She makes herself agreeable to everyone. On a basketball court, there are very few who can show such ability. We are bound to hear of her great world deeds in the near future.

ERNST CALDECOTT, A.B.
Whitchurch, England

Whitchurch Wesleyan; Cliff College; Drew Theological Seminary; Wesleyan.

"Tall here, but exceptionally tall in England."

Ernest first saw light at Whitchurch, England. He possesses the natural brilliancy characteristic of some native Englanders. Even though he has been with us but a year, we are very glad to welcome him as a fellow student. He is a minister, and has had some experiences in our Mountain State.

GRETA EMMA PROUDFOOT, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Wesleyan Normal, '12; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.

This young lady is already actively engaged in school work. She is a teacher in West Milford High School and her work there is highly commendable. She is another of our industrious workers of whom we are justly proud.

HAROLD FALLON, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High, '15; Chrestomathean; Men's Glee Club; Class Basketball; Football, '15-'16-'17; Vice-President Junior Class, '17-'18; Vice-President Senior Class, '18-'19.

"Weiner's twin-sister. When one is seen the other is invariably lingering near."

Irish is an earnest worker and puts all he has into anything he undertakes to do. He is a great musician, and when it comes to playing on the Hawaiian guitar, he is better than the real native. He is one who will reach the goal or the top of the ladder even though it is hard to climb.

VIRGINIA ARBUTHNOT, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Parkersburg High, '15; Chrestomathean; Class Historian, '16; Wesleyan Normal, '17; Pharos Staff, '17; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, '16-'17-'18; Y. W. C. A. Representative Student Conference, Eaglesmere.

"Impossible to tell when you were going to be a friend or to be the object of a severe reprimand, in other words, 'a bawling out'."

The history of her class achievement is in corroboration with the expression, "Let us be judged by our deeds". Though small in stature, like other great little people, she grasps much. She is no respecter of persons, which is a trait that ordinary people are unable to cultivate.

GLENN W. BUTCHER, A.B.
Beverly, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '16; President Y. M. C. A., '18-'19; Manager Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course, '17-'18; Homiletic Association; Webster Debating Club.

"It is indeed mysterious the way this gentleman can miss class so often, yet slip by unnoticed."

A successful minister and a great preacher, who, in spite of his soap-box antics, gets more than a corner hearing. Glenn had been pastor of Hammond Church, Clarksburg, for the past two years, and since his very first appearance the church has been making rapid strides. We expect him to be one of the greatest preachers in the West Virginia Conference. He is a fine student and a splendid orator.

ELIZABETH K. HARTLEY, A.B.
Cottageville, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '13; Wesleyan Normal, '15; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; English Instructor Petersburg High School, Petersburg, W. Va.

"Let cordor and goodness of heart be pre-eminent in all my work."

Good literature appeals to her. Elizabeth is already an English instructor. The fact that she has begun her work in teaching proves that she is earnest and enthusiastic. Splendid reports of her success have been turned in.

Cole McCally, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High, '16; President Wesleyan Debating Club; Chrestomathean; Champion Football Team, '17.

"He pushes forward in everything."

Cole left Wesleyan in the summer of 1918 to enter the Officers' Training School at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. He received his commission and was stationed in Mississippi. Lieut. McCally entered school again as soon as he was mustered out of service. We are very glad that he is going to graduate with our class. He is a popular young man, having played center on the champion football team. Cole outplayed Bailey, of W. V. U., who was chosen as All-American center by many sport critics.

Fae McClellan, A.B.
Smithfield, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '15; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Secretary Freshman Class, '16; Secretary Sophomore Class, '17; Varsity Basketball, '16; Girls' Athletic Association; Local Editor Pharos, '15.

"Fame will come to this young lady, who was never known to shirk."

Fae is one of the most studious of our Senior girls. She accomplishes successfully whatever she undertakes to do. She does great things without much talk and thus she has won the admiration of the entire class—young men inclusive.

Pearl Post, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Belington High, '14; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Editor Pharos, '18-'19; May Queen, '18; Y. W. C. A. Representative Student Conference, Eaglesmere.

"I could not live without the love of my friends."

Pearl is casting sunshine all around and is a gem more precious than any yet found. She is an excellent student, of whom the Senior Class is justly proud. She ranks very high in the esteem of all her schoolmates. Her popularity is manifest in the fact that she was chosen as May Queen, which is a particular distinction bestowed by way of student choice. She specializes in high grades.

Paul Holden, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High, '15; Chrestomathean; Treasurer Chrestomathean Society, '16; Y. M. C. A.; Webster Debating Club; Editor Murmurmontis, '17-'18; Business Manager Pharos, '18-'19.

"There are those who laugh at aged lovers."

Paul swallows philosophy as thoroughly as some people do refreshment. His interest in philosophical discussion is an indication of his thirst for knowledge and his great passion for doing religious work. Paul is a preacher who can teach 'er.

Ruth Bland Grimes, A.B.
Dunmore, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '16; President Chrestomathean Society, '18; Secretary Chrestomathean Society, '16; President Volunteer Band, '18-'19; Secretary-Treasurer Volunteer Band, '16-'17; President Y. W. C. A. Summer Term, '17; Secretary Y. W. C. A., '17-'18; Secretary-Treasurer West Virginia Volunteer Union, '19-'20.

"Either a missionary or a missionary's wife—one is just as essential as the other."

Ruth is a tireless worker and a fine student. She finishes her college work in three years. Her work is always commendable. She is a factor in every Christian organization of the school. Whether it be in literary society, student meeting, Y. W. C. A. or Volunteer meetings, she is always ready to lend a helping hand.

Nevie Cutlip, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy; Y. M. C. A.; Excelsior; Secretary Homiletic Association, '14-'15; President Homiletic Association, '16-'17; Manager Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course, '18-'19.

"Delights in Shakespeare so much that he is able to grasp the large ideas."

Destined to be one of the great preachers of the West Virginia Conference. The educational craze is still with him, and Boston Theological Seminary will be his place of future study. Nevie is a good, steady student, not because of the restraint of married life, however, but because it is unnatural for him to be anything else but reliable student.

ALPHA RUTH HARTLEY, A.B.
Cottageville, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '15; West Virginia University, '16-'17; Wesleyan, '18-'19; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.

"Truth and virtue are the best wealt'."

Scientific agriculturing has a strong advocator in this young lady. Her lectures in State Agricultural Conventions are convinsive. She believes in advancement, even though others have tilled the soil.

CECIL G. BLAKE, A.B.
Lewisburg, W. Va.

Greenbrier Military Academy, '14; Post-graduate, '15; Excelsior; Vice-President Junior Class, '17; Varsity football, '15-'16-'17; Varsity basketball and baseball, '15-'16-'17.

"Athletics is his specialty."

Lieutenant Jerry left the class to enter the first Officers' Training School at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, May 15, 1917. He received his commission August 15th, the same year. He served with the 329th Infantry from August 29, 1917, to February 15, 1919, at which time he was mustered out of service. From June 6, 1918, to January 31, 1919, he was overseas. Even though his enlistment prolonged his college graduation, he gladly sacrificed everything for his country.

Clarence C. Durst, A.B.
Amboy, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '16; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Homiletic Association; Webster Debating Club; Volunteer Band; Reserve Football Team.

"Brevity of speech, slow to act, but an accomplisher of great things."

Clarence has caught a world vision and his future tour of foreign lands will help much toward universal evangelization.

Olive Wolverton, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High; Wesleyan Academy, '13.

Miss Wolverton entered our class at the beginning of the year, and even though she has been with us but a short time, she has proven to be a valuable member. She is an industrious student and one of the choice few who has a "stand in" with the Faculty.

SIMON CARPENTER, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Wesleyan Academy, '15; Y. M. C. A.; Chrestomathean; President Chrestomathen Society, '17; President Glee Club, '18; President Junio. Class, '18; Treasurer Freshman Class, '15.

"Loyal in everything."

Simon is one of the Buckhannon boys who has distinguished himself at Wesleyan. He steers clear of the girls, so he can always be found when there is work to be done. He is one of the best workers in the class, and ever ready with a helping hand.

MAE HUNTER, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Ravenswood High, '15; Excelsior; Glee Club; Secretary-Treasurer Glee Club; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; Class Treasurer, '18-'19; Representative Student Conference, Eaglesmere; Bethany College, '16-'17.

"Best goods come in small packages."

Mae is no exception to this old proverb. She is one of the most lovable and capable members of the class. This young lady came to us after completing two years of her college work at Bethany. While there, she was either an official or an active worker in nearly all of the college organizations and activities. She has maintained the same record here and has proven dependable in all things.

BLAINE ENGLE, A.B.
Shinnston, W. Va.

Chrestomathean; Y. M. C. A.; Webster Debating Club.

"Mistah school-master, with modern notions and theories."

Blaine is principal of the Shinnston Graded Schools, and the success of his initial debut means an entrance into greater achievement. He believes that every moment of time and that every part of the school machinery shall give an account of itself.

LUANA LIGGETT, A.B.
Buckhannon, W. Va.

Buckhannon High, '13; Wesleyan, '15; Y. W. C. A.

"Ambitious views take wider flights than love."

Luana is one of our mates who continually pushes forward. Nothing daunts her courageous attitude. To such a brave and faithful heart nothing is difficult. In the history of all experiences we learn that fortune favors the brave, so we do not fear about the welfare of Luana.

Senior Class History

IF modern experience has proven anything of value, we dare not boast of class achievement when we are actually ready to enter into that real life which has demanded of us these years of college preparation. The class history, then, will be brief and will touch only those things which are naturally devoid of any boastful sentiment.

The Senior Class entered Wesleyan in the fall of 1915 with a membership of fifty. Since that time the personnel of the class has so changed that now there are but five of the original fifty with us. This loss in membership, largely a result of the war, was made up to a very great extent by additions emigrating from other colleges and universities. Still others crept up a year by taking advantage of the Summer School terms, which enabled them to obtain additional college credit.

As Sophomores and Juniors we were like the great undercurrent of a stream—seldom appearing to make a noisy demonstration, but steadily working with much of the power of the school vested in our quiet strength. In our Junior year, the majority of our men, gladly and willingly sacrificing all, hastened to their country's call. At this time, the girls began to shoulder all the tasks, even the most difficult. Strange to relate, "scheming" was even banished or else forgotten in the rush of unusual activity. The probable reason, though, fearing you cannot guess, is this, that there was no one with whom to have a tryout.

At this time, the horror of war was at its height. Because of the resultant abnormal conditions, we departed from the time-honored custom of publishing the "Murmurmontis". This was done as a conservative measure. Aside from this, things went on in their usual way.

Finally, we ripen into full-fledged Seniors. Some, not far removed from their childhood days, are most nobly shouldering the responsibilities and the duties of Senior life. If these younger ones begin to stray, there is ample restraint in the dignified teachers and preachers who add much to the solemnity of the class behavior. Though we flourish in many respects, we are beginning to doubt that we still retain or ever had a "stand-in" with the Faculty. The way they insist on over-work is nearly enough to agitate a revolution. In spite of the numerous conflicts, we are proud of our position at Wesleyan.

The commencements we have previously witnessed have been looked upon with great joy, but as the time for our departure draws nearer, there does not appear to be such fun in it after all. During these years we have trod the self-same way, but now we are beginning to realize that our paths will soon divide and we know not what lies before us. We realize that the way has been rough and that many discouragements have threatened us, but we well know that it is but a preparation for the sterner stuff which we are about to explore. Without a boastful attitude, we can say that we are ready for an immediate entrance into that daily stream of life which is to be entirely different from the good 'ole school experiences through which we have been passing. As we are about to leave we feel that Wesleyan has provided us with the fundamental training necessary to meet the multiplied characters of the new era—a new set of living conditions, a new arrangement of human relationships, and a new basis for international life. Whether our paths be easy or whether they be rocky, and wherever they may lead, we will all strive to prove that we are worthy representatives of our great Alma Mater.

"In the spring when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love—"

M. H. H. S., '16; Y. M. C. A.; Excelsior; Vice-President Excelsior, '17; President Excelsior, '19; President of Junior Class; Business Manager Murmurmontis, '20; S. A. T. C.; Oratory, '17; Orchestra.

Behold our President, and one of whom we have reason to be more than proud. Besides attending to all his work in the college organizations, he has time to be a student—not a student of one or two subjects, but an all-around student. The splendid way in which he has been Business Manager of this book shows us that he will always be a success at this kind of work.

CECILE MARGUERITE WEST
Buckhannon, W. Va.

"Ceal"

"Laugh and the world laughs with you."

Cowen High School, '16; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Vice-President Junior Class; Secretary of Class, '17-'18; Treasurer of Y. W. C. A., '18-'19; Murmurmontis Staff.

Here is one of the jolliest girls at Wesleyan, but behind all this there is the student which nothing but A-plus can satisfy.

"Ceal" is making her plans to be a teacher of foreign languages, and we know she will be very thorough. She is another of the almost-married members of our class.

MARGARET WORKMAN
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Marg"

"Our class orator."

Fairmont Hi, '16; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Secretary Junior Class; Class Historian, '17-'18; Murmurmontis Staff; winner of Winifred Anderson Oratorical Contest, '18.

"Marg" is an all-around student of great ability She is a worker in all the college organizations, besides having outside interests to attend to. She has that excellent faculty of clear articulation that makes her a forceful and convincing speaker. We expect some day to hear of her as a public speaker of some note.

PAUL FLEMING
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Paul"

Pennington Seminary; Wesleyan Academy, '16; Y. M. C. A.; Chresto; Associate Editor Murmurmontis, '20.

Paul is one of our soldier boys. He joined the aviation corps in February, 1918, and was in training in England when the armistice was signed. After this he was very anxious to get back to school to join our class. Paul is one of our industrious students. He tries to get to at least one class "A-da" (a day).

ABE A. FISHER
Canton, Ohio
"Abe"

"A student and an athlete."

C. H. S., '16; Murmurmontis Staff; Varsity Football, '16-'17; Basketball, '17-'18-'19; Captain of Varsity Basketball Team, '19; S. A. T. C.

Abe came to us from Ohio. When he first joined our class we realized that he was a man of great ability. Besides being one of our best students, he has made an enviable record in athletics.

He expects to study medicine, and we predict a bright future for him in his chosen profession.

HELEN CARRICO
Rowlesburg, W. Va.
"Tony"

"She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight."

R. H. S.; Wesleyan Academy, '16; Normal, '18; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.

"Tony" is our star in the Home Economics Department. She says that she is going to be a Domestic Science teacher, but we think she will change her mind and be a "Cooke".

ROY D. MILLIRON
Mount Hope, W. Va.
"Milly"

"Solemn (?) studious (?) sanctimonious (?)"

M. H. H. S., '16; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A.; Reserve Basketball, '18; Varsity Basketball, '19.

"Milly" is one of our most promising young athletes. This is his first year on the varsity basketball team, altho last year he was a first sub.

He claims as one of his honors, membership in "Benny's" English XVI Class.

GEORGIA E. GILLESPIE
Webster Springs, W. Va.
"George"

"A gentle harmless lass with a good conscience."

W. S. H. S., '14; Normal, '15; Chresto; Y. W. C. A.; Junior Write-Ups.

"George" is both a good student and a talented music pupil. Very jolly and has as many friends among the boys as among the girls. Delights in being a "prim old maid"—once in a long time. She is known as a good cook, in fact, she graduates in Home Economics next year.

ELIZABETH SINE
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Dick"

"Deeds count more than words."

B. H. S., '16; Pharos Staff, '17; Secretary Excelsior, '18; Y. W. C. A.; Girls' Basketball, '17-'18-'19; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, '17-'18-'19; Murmurmontis Staff; College Orchestra.

"Dick" is our star basketball player, and has been ever since she entered Wesleyan. But this is not the only thing that she can do. She is a good student, and a mainstay in all college organizations, besides having quite a talent for music. She plays first violin in the college orchestra and often renders violin solos in society.

KELCEL M. ROSS
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"K"

"A man of many jobs."

B. H. S., '16; Excelsior; Varsity Football, '16; Assistant Manager of Murmurmontis, '20.

"K" is one of the Buckhannon boys who believes in patronizing his home college. Even while doing his college work he has been coaching B. H. S. for two years. His ability along this line has been well demonstrated by the splendid showing that B. H. S. has made in athletics.

Kelcel also belonged to Uncle Sam for several months, and when the armistics was signed he had a commission as second lieutenant.

BYRON H. HESS
Cowen, W. Va.
"Red"

"A heart so gay thru all the day."

C. H. S., '16; Fairmont Normal; S. A. T. C., Ohio State; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A.

"Red" is one of our most promising engineers. We are looking forward to the time when this energetic young man will be helping to solve the problems of civil engineering in this country or abroad.

He is one of the most popular members of the R. H. Club, especially among the girls. He can be seen quite often going towards or coming from the Ladies' Hall.

HENRIETTA H. SPIES
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Hen"

"She is everybody's friend."

B. H. S., '15; Excelsior.

"Hen" has life enough to supply the whole Junior Class, if need be. If there is a chance to play a joke on someone, her blue eyes certainly do sparkle.

Her plans at present are to become a nurse and thus to do her bit to relieve the sufferings of humanity. We know that she will make good, since she does everything with a conscientious thoroughness.

PAUL F. DAVIS
Clarksburg, W. Va.
"Brick"

"This shall be a 'sign' unto you."

W. I. H. S., '16; Y. M. C. A.; Excelsior; President Excelsior, '18-'19; Editor-in-Chief Murmurmontis, '20; Pharos Staff, '18-'19; S. A. T. C.

"Brick" is one of the most active class members we have, and never could we find a busier one. As President of Excelsior for two semesters, his ability as a leader has been well demonstrated. Besides all this, he belongs to the orchestra—or at least we suppose he does, as he is seen carrying a violin so often.

FRANCES WILLARD HAMMOND
Moundsville, W. Va.
"Frankie"

"Life is all joy."

M. H. S., '16; Wesleyan Normal, '17; Girls' Glee Club; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Secretary Excelsior, '18-'19; Vice-President Excelsior, '18.

"Frankie" is a very studious person and is very busy, but she always seems to find time to entertain a guest from Blaine who often spends the week-end here. She is a valued member of the Girls' Glee Club and often sings with the Girls' Quartette in chapel or literary.

WILLARD BROWN
Terra Alta, W. Va.
"Bill"

"Thy voice is a celestial melody."

T. A. H. S., '16; Excelsior Literary Society; Girls' Glee Club, '17-'18-'19; Murmu montis Staff.

Since the first year this class was organized "Bill" has been ready to do whatever has fallen her lot. She has never been known to shirk a task which the Juniors have imposed upon her. We are proud of this member because she is a pioneer and especially known in the College Girls' Quartette.

WATT STEWART
Summersville, W. Va.
"Watt"

"A man among men."

Morris Harvey, '14: Chresto; Y. M. C. A.; Track, '15-'17; A. E. F.

Watt is the only member who has seen real overseas service. Our class can boast of several lieutenants, and Watt is one of them.

He is quite an athlete, having been a valuable member of the track team in '15 and '17. But athletics is not his only strong point, for he is conscientious student, and very talented in music.

THURMAN ANDREW
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Andy"

"A man of few words, but those few count."

Buckhannon High School, '16; Excelsior Literary Society.

Buckhannon Hi has sent us many fine people, but none that we are more pleased to have as a member of our class than "Andy". For the past year he has been in the aviation corps. His natural ability as an electrician promises to make him a man of note in the scientific world.

FLOY GAMBLE
New Martinsville, W. Va.
"Floy"

"A shark in French."

Magnolia High, '16; Excelsior; Treasurer Y. W. C. A., '17; Treasurer of Junior Class; Girls' Basketball, '19; Vice-President Y. W. C. A., '19.

Floy has distinguished herself in many ways since entering Wesleyan. She is one of the most active members of our class, ready to do her best whether it be in literary society, Y. W. C. A., basketball, class work or doing a little kindness to some one.

BLANCHE McDONALD
Cowen, W. Va.

"Blanche"

"To know her is to love her."

C. H. S., '14; Normal, '15; Chresto; Secretary of Chresto, '18; Y. W. C. A.; Secretary of Y. W., '19-'20.

She is the squarest member of our class, having been built that way, and as a square is always an object of neat proportions, so is she. Her friendly smile is given to all in greeting. Blanche is one who most certainly knows how to get A plus from Prof. Cowgill. Being a star in English, great literary achievements should be hers.

ERNEST L. BECK
Bellaire, Ohio

"Becky"

"An athlete of some repute."

B. H. S., '15; Varsity Football, '16-'17; Varsity Basketball, '16-'17-'18-'19; Baseball, '17-'19; Captain Football, '17; Captain Basketball, '17; Wesleyan Debating Club; Excelsior.

"Becky" is one of the best natured fellows in school. Upon his entrance here he at once made a host of friends and entered into the school activities. He would have been a Senior this year, but was out of school for several months in the service of his county. We are glad to welcome him to our class.

VIVA VIRGINIA CASTO
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Bigy"

"Good things come in small packages."

B. H. S., '16; Y. W. C. A.; President S. P. Club.

Viva is the least member of our class in size, but not in the capacity for learning, and she is mighty when it comes to work. She is one of the most fascinating characters in school. We expect the Alma Mater to be proud of her some day.

BLANCHE FRUM
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Blanche"

"A teacher among teachers."

Marshall College; Wesleyan Academy; Normal, '16; Y. W. C. A.

Blanche is a teacher of some repute. She is at present a member of our Faculty, being critic of the intermediate grades in the Normal School, where she is making good.

ZILLAH SHORT
Shinnston, W. Va.
"Ziela"

"Always ready to play a prank."

S. H. S., '16; Y. W. C. A.

"Ziela" is majoring in Home Economics. We cannot persuade ourselves to believe that her main purpose in chosing this as her major is to become a teacher of Home Economics—she is to demonstrate her knowledge to a class of one.

She always has her lessons and she always has time for playing pranks. She has roomed on the fourth floor for three years. Need more be said?

J. SHARPS CRISLIP
Weston, W. Va.
"Sharps"

"A lover of all things beautiful."

Wesleyan Academy, '13; Normal, '14; University of Florida; Chresto.

Sharps is another member of our class who has been in the service of his country for the past several months and has just entered school this semester. He is quite sociable and bids fair to become very popular among the fair sex.

MYRON B. HYMES
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Myron"

"This man sometimes has time to study."

B. H. S., '16; West Point Military Academy; Varsity Football, '17; Varsity Basketball, '18-'19; Manager of Sixth Annual High School Basketball Tournament, '19; Chresto; Y. M. C. A.

Myron has shown exceptional ability as stationary guard in basketball and as half-back in football. The wonderful success of the 1919 tournament is in a great part due to his ability as manager. Myron is not only an athlete, but an A-plus student also. He is another of our members who has recently belonged to the army, and who had his commission as a second lieutenant.

VERA G. REED
Clay, West Virginia
"Vera"

"Golden locks and a sunny smile."

Clay County High School, '16; Marshall College; Excelsior; Y. W. C. A.; Girls' Basketball, '19; Junior Elocution.

This little maid bids fair to become one of the best readers that Wesleyan has even produced. Besides her ability as an elocutionist, she is a talented music student. Her one "shortcoming" is her great interest in W. V. U.

LEILA MYRTLE MAUZY
Franklin, W. Va.
"Mosey"

"The class suffragette."

F. H. S., '14; Keyser Prep, '16; Wesleyan Normal, '17; Historian Normal, '17; Treasurer of Freshman Class, '20; Murmurmontis Staff, '20.

When a prank is to be played you can always count on Mosey's hearty support. She is a good student, but never lets studying interfere with her good time.

We predict for her a brilliant career as a leader of the woman's rights' organization.

A. M. HAUGHT
Reeder, W. Va.
"Austin"

"Sure ond steady."

Graduate West Liberty Norman; W. V. U.

The Junior Class feels highly honored to count as one of it's members Austin, who has the distinction of being the nephew of "Tommy". He entered our class at the close of the first semester this year, having just returned from an Officers' Training Camp.

We expect to hear from him as one of the greatest scientists of America befo.e many years have passed.

AUBERT BAIN POTORF
Woodlawn, Kentucky
"A. B."

"A level head and a big heart."

Broadhead High School; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A.; Murmurmontis Staff; Homiletic Association; Vice-President Excelsior, '19; S. A. T. C.

"A. B." came to us from Kentucky in the fall of '17, but seeing such a promising class as the Juniors decided to join it this year. In spite of the fact that he is a married man he is very active in all our class functions.

He is a good student and is here for business. He is not afraid to undertake new and difficult tasks and he does nothing which he does not do well.

LESTIE MAE REEDER
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Lestie"

"We love her. Need more be said?"

Academy, '16; Chresto; Y. W. C. A.; Murmurmontis Staff; Vice-President Chresto, '19; Vice-President Y. W. C. A., '18-'19.

When there is work to be done, one can always count upon Lestie, because she is ever ready to do her part. She is very active in literary work as well as in Christian work. Lestie is an all-around student, being a favorite with all the teachers. What she will do after she leaves school is quite a mystery, but we know that she will succeed in whatever she undertakes.

MINOR C. MILES
Charleston, W. Va.
"M. C."

"Ideals count much."

Academy, '14; Normal, '15; Y. M. C. A; Excelsior; Homiletic Association; Murmurmontis Staff; President-elect Y. M. C. A.

"M. C." is another one of the members of our class who has taken upon himself a "better half". He is one of our most active members, and his abilities point towards a very successful life in his chosen work—the ministry.

For the past two years he has been teaching and has made quite a success along that line of work. May his endeavors always be crowned with success.

GLYDE BAILEY
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Glyde"

"She has not one talent, but many."

Buckhannon Hi, '15; Normal, '17; Y. W. C. A.

Glyde is one of our most industrious students. A young lady of higher standards could not be found anywhere. She is very quiet, talking but very little on the campus or about the halls, but when the "profs" begin to question her they find that she has a store of both knowledge and wisdom.

HESTER HUNTER
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Hite"

"Joy personified."

B. H. S., '16.

"Hite" is one of our town girls who is so busy with other things that she takes very little part in college activities. She is always in a good humor and ready to take advantage of an opportunity to do a kindness. We think that she will make an ideal wife for a doctor.

PAUL H. MCKAIN
West Union, W. Va.
"P. H."

Rogersville High School, '16; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A.; Homiletic Association.

Paul is the only member of our class thus far this year who has fallen a victim of cupid's arrow. We extend our heartiest congratulations and best wishes to him to make good in that form of endeavor as he has done in his ministerial work for the past two years.

E. O. McNULTY
Monongehela, Pa.
"Mac"

"Still waters run deep."

Taylor University; Y. M. C. A.; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A. Secretary for the S. A. T. C.

"Mac" came to us from Indiana and received a hearty welcome. This year in addition to his school work he has been the Y. M. C. A. Secretary for the S. A. T. C., where he became quite a favorite. He is one of our young ministers and one from whom we are expecting great results.

GEORGIA WESTFALL
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Georgia"

"She cheers like sunshine."

Excelsior Literary Society; Y. W. C. A.; Wesleyan Academy, '17; Mission Chairman Y. W. C. A.

Georgia is one of our best workers in society and Y. W. C. A. Besides these she is an excellent student, always being a star in every class. When her school career is over she expects to be a missionary and we know she will be a great success in this as she has been in all her former undertakings.

JOHN H. WINTER
Flemington, W. Va.
"John Henry"

"Tho sounds of war may fill the air, when both are young and she is fair, love will not be denied."

F. H. S., '16; Excelsior; Y. M. C. A.; Homeletic Association.

Here is our "nearly-wed" member, or at least we think he is. His greatest interest in life seems to be on the island, but just what that interest is, is rather mystifying.

"John Henry" is quite a singer. His voice is often heard melodiously ringing thru the literary halls.

LILLIAN LIGGETT
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Lil"

"As merry as the day is long."

B. H. S., '16; Y. W. C. A.; Excelsior; Junior Elocution.

"Lil" is one of the jolliest persons in our class. She always has a happy word of greeting for all, but in spite of all her laughter she is a good student. She is one of the few who always has her note books and reference work up to date.

Ross P. Daniel
Marshes, W. Va.
"Pup"

"To me, love is better than fame."

Wesleyan Academy; Chresto; Y. M. C. A.
"Pup" has joined our class again after having been in the service of Uncle Sam for several months. The girls especially are glad that he has returned, for you see "Pup" is a ladies' man.

Ada Virginia Allman
Buckhannon, W. Va.
"Ada"

"She has a smile that won't rub off."

W. V. W. C. Academy, '16; Chrestomathean Literary Society.
Ada is one of the most cheerful girls of our class, and is as popular with the boys as she is with the girls. At present she is very greatly interested in the "Fleming" loving cup.

Junior Class History

"Sure, he that hath made us with such large discourse,
Looking before and after, gave us not
That capability and god-like reason
To fust in us unused."

—Hamlet, Act IV, Scene IV.

MUCH has been the slogan of the Class of 1920. Since our entrance as Freshmen in the fall of 1916, the history of the present Junior Class has been one of brilliancy. Who but the great Shakespeare himself could have divined such an excellent thought for us to follow!

In furnishing officers for the societies, Christian organizations, etc., this class has been the most honored of any in the school. At present, Juniors fill the offices of President, Vice-President and Treasurer of Excelsior Literary Society; Vice-President of Chrestomathean Literary Society; President and Vice-President of the Y. M. C. A.; Vice-President of the Y. W. C. A.; Government Y. M. C. A. Secretary; Training Teacher in Model School; President of Student Volunteer Movement of West Virginia, and all the other leading offices of Wesleyan.

In athletics, too, we have not been laggards. Three of the "Varsity Five," Hymes, Beck and Fisher, are members of the illustrious class of '20; also, Milliron, the efficient first substitute. Then, too, there is Ross, one of our number, who for two years has coached the Buckhannon High School team in basketball, and whose efficiency was so splendidly shown in this year's tournament.

Slackers? We have none! Nearly all of our members have been in service for Uncle Sam—two, Stewart and Fleming, having seen active service in France. Hymes, Ross and Stewart have attained the height of commissioned officers, and we are very proud to have such renown within our class.

And now, dear readers, we will leave the rest of the impressions of the Junior Class to you yourselves. If you like this book, give the praise to the untiring efforts of our most efficient Editor-in-Chief, and Business Manager, Davis and Patteson, and to the ones who have stood by them during its publication—the Class of 1920. With these considerations in mind, we can repeat with Shakespeare without a doubt, I think, the quotation at the beginning and apply it to the Junior Class.

Sophomore Class History

TIME and space is entirely inadequate to the stupendous task of unfolding the glories of the Class of '21, so but little more than a bare outline of its history can be given here.

The opening of the fall term of 1917 will go down in the annals of history as an epoch in the advancement of West Virginia Wesleyan, for at this time the Class of '21 gathered for the first time within her walls.

Our start in school was not different from that of other classes, owing to the rules and regulations as then proclaimed by the Dean and the Seniors, but this did not impede or suppress us, as will be shown when in the not far distant future the editorials, essays, criticisms, orations, poetry and travelogues of that year's English class will be gathered and edited under the title of "Masterpieces of One Hundred and Two Freshmen" for the model and inspiration of all later freshmen.

The organization of the class was early comoleted and the following officers were elected: President, Egbert McWhorter; Vice-President, Sherwood Shinn; Secretary and Treasurer, Emma Shumaker.

Soon, in a terrible accident when a life was instantly snuffed out, the class mourned its first loss, and Chester Collins is with us today only in memory.

Of the Champion '17 Football squad, six first-string men were of the Class of '21. This is only a sample of our ability, as many other instances might be given, would space permit.

The year of '18 opened, and very soon twenty-eight of the thirty-three boys in the old class were in uniform, and the other members of the class were industriously engaged in some form of war work, such as Red Cross, or as correspondents with, and candy makers for the members of the S. A. T. C.

For the school year 1918-1919 the officers elected were: President, Virginia Patterson; Vice-President, Raymond Deck; Secretary and Treasurer, Marjorie Young.

Altho we have not been entirely victorious in all things, yet when the final tale was told, the colors of '21 were always found floating from the highest pinnacle.

As we go on thru college life the following classes will behold the class history of '21 as the beacon light of progress and success.

"May she live forever."

Freshmen Class History

IN September, 1918, the Class of '22 started on its college career with no lack of good resolutions. One of them was, "We resolve to grow wiser every day." Our class was initiated into Wesleyan College along with the Government's grandiose scheme of quick military training. Regardless of money, equipment, yes, everything, this wonderful scheme was set going. There was terrible confusion in organization for study. In fact, we were all in turmoil. Consequently our class organization was delayed until September 27th.

Ours is the largest class that ever took up its abode inside the strong doors of West Virginia Wesleyan College. Demobilization of the S. A. T. C. robbed us of a few of our first enrollment, leaving us still one of the largest Freshmen classes on record.

In athletics we have had little opportunity to prove our mettle, as the S. A. T. C. prevented football. Three of our number were on the Varsity basketball squad, and we feel confident that this class contains much good material for football, baseball and other athletics.

The deadly epidemic of "flu" caused prolonged quarantines. The horror and gloom which was felt everywhere was measured to us in the loss of a member of our class.

Early in the second semester a little spice was added to school life by a class rush. This was a contest of colors between the Sophomores and Freshmen. The day closed with the Freshmen victorious.

In March we gave a tacky party, displaying our skill in dressing up. The whole class, plus the Faculty, joined heartily in this affair and came out for a jolly good time, and we had it.

To be of definite service in real life is the aim of this class. We are fondly hoping this class will continue to build both for the strength and glory of Wesleyan standards and the uplift of man.

THE Y has long been a recognized necessity at Wesleyan. To uphold the lofty Christian standards laid down by the founders of our school the young men must have an opportunity for intimate association under a distinctly Christian atmosphere. This atmosphere the Y supplies.

Last autumn the S. A. T. C. brought with it additional duties and functions for the Y. M. C. A. The Student Department of the National Y. M. C. A. was alive to our needs and selected one of our own members, Mr. E. O. McNulty, to serve as Student Secretary. Since November 1st, Mr. McNulty has given practically his whole time to association work. Among his manifold duties during the days of the S. A. T. C. were the distribution of stationery and timely literature; the securing of competent speakers to address the soldier boys on live topics that were of present interest to them; the supplying of wholesome entertainment in the form of athletic meets, stunt nights and movie shows; and the provision of Bible study classes and discussion groups. During the months of confusion and "flu" the Y was the morale preserver at Camp Wesleyan. The Y was just adjusting itself to the rigorous demands of military service when the men were discharged and the camp was broken up.

Secretary McNulty was present at the Yonker's Conference, held December 27-29. After his return our local association heartily adopted the extensive program set forth during the Yonker's meeting. With this new program the Y has taken on increased vigor in all departments under the efficient direction of President Butcher and his corp of assistants. Our returned comrades from the camps and overseas are adding their part to the general enthusiasm. Our association is ministering to the moral, social and spiritual needs of our boys and is thus glorifying the name of Him whom we love and serve.

Excelsior Literary Society

Motto: "Esse Quam Videri."

Colors: Pink and Blue.

TRUE to the spirit expressed in its motto, Excelsior Literary Society has been quietly and efficiently carrying on the work it was intended to perform when it was organized in 1890, the work of training and developing the future leaders of our state and nation. The value of Excelsior to Wesleyan students in the past has been proven by the illustrious work of members of this society, who were trained to think quickly, speak effectively, and act wisely, in Excelsior Hall. Their work in the world speaks for itself, and proves that no one can afford to miss the training which is received by taking an active part in the society work.

The work of this year forms but another inspiring page in the record of Excelsior's history. Despite the disadvantage in the first semester arising from influenza quarantine and S. A. T. C. restrictions, there has been manifested a growing interest in the work of the society. A great many new members have been gained and by their loyalty and support they have helped add to the beneficial influence which Excelsior stands for. The spirit manifested by the society as a whole has been most encouraging. The programs have been interesting and instructive, the crowds large and attentive, and the work of the society in consequence useful and appreciated. With the present enthusiasm for society work the outlook for the future of Excelsior is bright and encouraging.

"May our society continue to be an honor to Wesleyan, an inspiration to her friends and a blessing to all new students," is the wish of every loyal member of Excelsior Literary Society.

Chrestomathean Literary Society

SINCE it is chiefly the present of "Chresto" at which we wish to look, for the past it will be sufficient to say that the society is as old as Wesleyan and in parallel with the institution it has grown steadily, accumulating about its history traditions of fine qualities and high ideals. Yet these are not mere traditions, for they are a living presence in the society today.

During this year "Chresto" has had her "ups and downs," as has most every organization in these disturbed times, but it is plainly to be seen that the "ups" have carried the more force of the two. At the beginning of the year "Chresto" started off with an even greater interest than usual. The attendance was splendid, including many S. A. T. C. members. But the army quarantine in conjunction with the "flu" soon placed a ban on everything, except classes. After two months the restrictions were lifted and literary interest had even a greater impulse than before, only to ebb again at the demobilization of the S. A. T. C. in late December.

The new year brought new prospects to "Chresto." We were then free from the uncertainty which had characterized the first of the year. Many of the S. A. T. C. men returned to school, as did others of the service who had previously been active in the society. A new interest came with the second semester election. At this time a very capable staff of officers were chosen. Worthy mention is here made of the retiring officers. Their ability and patience were fully tried and proved by the uncertainty of events. The new staff did not have to face this handicap. They have had the hearty co-operation of all members, new and old. Chrestomathean Literary Society is again on her way to achievement and success.

Homelitic Association

CHAPEL announcement: "Homiletic Association will meet this evening at seven." Invariably, there is an immediate wave of quiet mirth moving among most of the male students. Evidently, something pleasant is connected with such meetings. Every student has some notion as to what the association means and just what is going to happen. The first thought is "something stirring there!" It is absolutely true that something happens and that all action is progressive.

The Homiletic Association is composed of all students who are preparing for the Christian ministry. Preparation for the ministry is kept clearly in mind as the distinct object of the homiletic meetings. This organization aims to equip ministerial students for efficient service in the church and in life. It is continually pointing onward and upward.

The religious meetings of the association are fine for the religious education of the student. Sometimes the hour is spent in discussing the problems of the ministry, the work of the ministry, or in the construction of sermons. The student must have all the intensive training that can be gotten during his college days in order to meet the demands of the modern ministry, and it is in the Homiletic meeting that he can respond to the various demands. Here the student receives fresh inspiration for a continued pursuit of his work and of the best in life. Occasionally a sermon is delivered by a student. This is where he realizes that he is not infallible. Before long the student realizes that he is standing before a bunch of higher critics. They listen carefully—once in his life that the entire congregation is attentive—and jot down notes and criticisms continually. When the sermon is finished, the session is open to criticism. All criticism is given in a friendly attitude and points out faulty material, preparation, poor delivery, and any other mistake. This is very valuable training, for it is much better to make mistakes in a class room before a bunch of ministerial students than it is to make them later on in life before a congregation.

The Pharos

THE Pharos staff takes this opportunity to express its appreciation to the student body for the honor of serving you in this capacity. We wish also to acknowledge the assistance of the students for the contributions made by them. The road has at times seemed hard, but as we retrospect our editorial labors, nothing but the pleasant features are remembered. We do not presume to believe that the Pharos has pleased all its readers of the past year. But in a large measure we have done our best and in an equally large measure we believe that our efforts have been appreciated.

ONE of the most successful organizations in Wesleyan is the Girls' Glee Club, and what is more commendable than its excellent reputation in the past year, is the high standard of perfection which has been a feature of the club's work during the present year.

During the last two years, the club has taken extended tours thru the state; the one this year taking in the northern part of the state as far as Wheeling. It is almost inadequate to say that this tour was a great success. The splendid appearance of the club as a whole, the goodly variety and arrangement of the program, and the excellent manner of its rendition attracted and held the attention of the audiences from start to finish. Too much credit cannot be given Prof. Muzzy for the careful and thorough training which he, as Director, has given the club.

Another enjoyable feature of the programs was the excellent readings of Miss Young, who has been with the club for two years.

Men's Glee Club

ALTHOUGH there was a sorry depletion of the ranks of the men in college, owing to the call to the colors, new material was developed, and the Glee Club of 1917-'18 ranked among the best clubs that have ever represented the college. Under the leadership of Professor Bohanan, our director, the club was able to render a very successful program, and it is to his untiring efforts that the success of the club is due.

The only trip that the club, as a whole, was permitted to take, was a very successful one, programs being rendered at Sutton, Gassaway, Cowen, and Richwood. At each of these places, the program was favorably received, and a good impression was made on the people. After this trip, the club was broken up by some of the members answering the call of Uncle Sam and thoughts of another trip were given up. However, a double quartette was selected, which joined a double quartette from the Girls' Glee Club, and together, toured the northern and western parts of the state, visiting Clarksburg, Fairmont, Fairview, Moundsville, Cameron, New Martinsville, Wallace, and Salem. The people were well pleased with the program, and the experience was an enjoyable one and long to be remembered by the participants.

During the present year, the regular plans of the college were interrupted by the military program of Uncle Sam, and no Men's Glee Club has been organized. However, with the return to normal conditions, Wesleyan has a bright prospect for a good club next year.

The present college orchestra, which is now in its second year, is an organization of which Wesleyan may justly be proud. Because of its large membership, it has a wide range in instrumentation and a careful balance of parts. It finds its chief usefulness in giving experience to students of orchestral instruments and in furnishing music for the varous college functions. This organization owes its success very largely to the untiring enthusiasm and industry of Prof. Spaulding.

The instrumentation and membership is as follows:

S. A. T. C.

AT the beginning of the past college year the United States Government assigned a unit of the S. A. T. C. at Wesleyan College.

The Government agreed to induct the members of this unit into the United States Army as regular soldiers. Members of the S. A. T. C., therefore, received soldiers' pay of $30 the month and had all their necessary expenses met by the Government.

Admission to this soldier group was limited to men physically fit, who were 18 years of age or older, and who could present thirteen or more units of high school credit. One hundred and eighty-six of the men who applied for admission met the conditions, passed the physical test, and were soldiers of the United States Army.

The college gymnasium was fitted up as a barracks for the soldier-students. A large room in the basement served as a mess hall.

Lieutenant Fred Horton, of Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, was assigned as commanding officer. He was assisted by Lieutenant Cecil G. Gaston, of Penn State; Lieutenant Neil Y. Pharr, of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C.; Lieutenant Harry J.

Watson, of Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., and Lieutenant Raphael J. Welch, of Dubuque College, Dubuque, Iowa.

On the 21st day of December the men were discharged, and it was a jolly crowd of young fellows who arrived home in time for Christmas, conscious that they had done their duty for their country.

The following men were members of the S. A. T. C. at Wesleyan:

1917 Football

ALTHO founded in 1890 and boasting of strong football teams during the era of twenty-seven years, a glance at the following record entered on history's pages by the 1917 team will prove the merits of the most powerful football team ever produced in the state of West Virginia:

Wesleyan, 13; Lebanon Valley, 0.
Wesleyan, 6; W. & J., 13.
Wesleyan, 28; Westminster, 3.
Wesleyan, 7; Penn State, 8.
Wesleyan, 40; Bethany, 6.
Wesleyan, 27; Marietta, 0
Wesleyan, 20; W. V. U., 0.

The outstanding feature of the 1917 season for every fan within our state and thousands beyond the borders of West Virginia was the successful triumph of Wesleyan over West Virginia University on Saturday prior to Thanksgiving Day. West Virginia, with a fine record and a team of which boasts innumerable and loud were being sung, crumbled beneath the superior team found in Wesleyan. The State University eleven had held Pitt 14 to 9, had downed Dobie's powerful Navy eleven 7 to 0, won decisively from Gettysburg, Carlisle and Virginia Tech, defeated Washington and Jefferson by a touchdown, and had held the big Rutgers eleven to a tie. The feat of West Virginia in holding Washington and Jefferson down and then humbling the Red and Black in the final period of the game by a well-earned touchdown was and is a record which cannot pass by without honor. It was the second time W. V. U. had won from W. & J. in the history of the two universities.

Wesleyan had a team that had practically been rebuilt from the year before. Wesleyan met and defeated Marietta, Lebanon Valley, Bethany and Westminster. Marietta and Westminster were teams of considerable strength, but fell hard beneath the Methodists' onslaught. Penn State was defeated and played inferior ball to Wesleyan up to the final thirty seconds of play, when darkness came on, Wesleyan fumbled and Penn State scored on a fluke. This score gave the Pennsylvanians the game, and Wesleyan, while playing the greater game, was chalked up a loser. Against Washington and Jefferson a blocked kick netted the second touchdown for the Red and Black, and again Wesleyan was returned a defeated aggregation, altho having played a better brand of ball than the opposition.

With this record behind Wesleyan, West Virginia University was met in Clarksburg on the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving. Here is where the University met her Waterloo. "Cock-sure" of winning and supported by a horde of thirsty betting men, who offered many odds, the saddest touch of pen in all the University days fell on the annals of time at the close of the great game. Wesleyan staged the most thrilling, the most scientific and the greatest football superiority that had ever been seen in the state. West Virginia players, some boasted for All-American mention, appeared stunned and lost. Even the touted Bailey and the great Rodgers were so completely outclassed that the loyal supporters of a great season became so disgusted as to leave the field long before the game was finished.

From the 1917 team Wesleyan has six veterans around whom another famous eleven will be built for the 1919 season.

STATE CHAMPIONS W.VA. 1917

1917 Baseball Champions

THE championship of West Virginia in college ranks for the season of 1917 rests undisputably with West Virginia Wesleyan. While Wesleyan won both games scheduled with the University, the season would have been considered a success even though one of the Wesleyan-University games had been dropped. After Wesleyan's return from Dixie every game at home and abroad was won, thus the Pittsburg sectional title was granted to Wesleyan by Richard Guy, sporting editor of the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, and other prominent sporting men over the country.

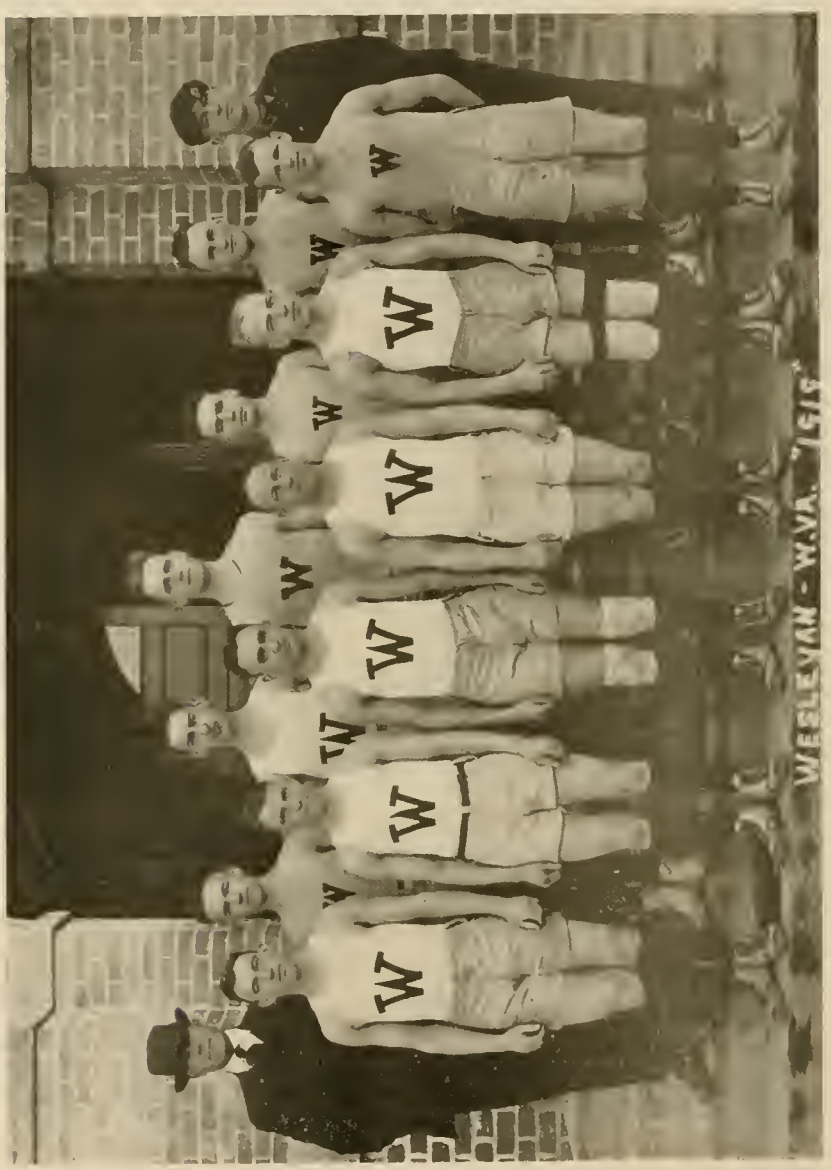
The first game with the University was played in Buckhannon and was won by Wesleyan by a 3-0 score. The second game, played in Morgantown, resulted in another Wesleyan victory, this time the score reading 2-0. Shriver faced June in both games, and while the two strong twirlers equally performed brilliantly for their respective clubs, the hard slugging nine of Wesleyan unraveled again that old story that it takes a well-balanced nine of hitters and fielders to win. In Rodgers, Huffman and Flynn, West Virginia had a trio of dangerous men, but what player of Wesleyan was liable to break up a game remained ever in doubt, and thus it was in the second Wesleyan-University game that Dunn, hitting in eighth place, drove out two terrific singles, and Shriver, who held the Mountaineers to two scattered hits, drove out a pretty single through second in the tenth inning which scored the two runs of the hard-fought game.

Marshall College was early eliminated by West Virginia, and both Salem and Bethany tasted defeat at the hands of Wesleyan, hence were obscured from championship aspirations. Baseball was called off at Davis-Elkins College, and Fairmont Normal and Morris-Harvey, although having creditable teams, are not to be considered in the first division, as their schedule included only teams of secondary rank.

The nine which represented Wesleyan in '17 was the best team ever sent upon the field by the Methodists. Its only peer, if there be one, was the 1914 team which won the state championship for the first time for Wesleyan by annihilating a most formidable foe in West Virginia University in a third and deciding game. It was the great work of "Lefty" Cornwell at that time which brought victory, as did the sterling pitching of Shriver in the 1917 series.

All averages for the 1917 season were lowered because of the hard Southern Dixie trip which was taken as a mere training excursion. On this sojourn thirteen games were played, and four were won and nine lost, which record is creditable considering conditions. The hitting of the team while South was much lower than that after the return. In fact, the strongest asset of the team after the return from the South rested in the hitting ability. The batting average of the individuals composing the 1917 team follows:

Player.	Games	Average
W. Dunn, lf	4	.800
Reeder, 2nd	23	.462
Miller, ss	23	.405
Shumaker, Capt., c	16	.385
B. Dunn, 3rd	23	.353
McClure, c. and lf	18	.389
Lough, 2nd	2	.333
Daniel, cf	23	.306
Beck, rf	23	.265
Krick, 1st	10	.240
Morrison, p	18	.160
Shriver, p	10	.130
Lantz, p	7	.200



WESLEYAN - W.VA. '1918

Basketball Season of 1919

MUCH to the surprise of even the staunchest fans of Wesleyan, the 1919 basketball quintette proved to be one of the best ever to don the Methodist "W." Owing to the suspension of athletics due to war conditions and to the fact that the gymnasium was utilized as barracks for the soldier lads of the Student's Army Training Corps, no plans for the operation of a cageman's machine had been worked out even after the armistice had been signed, the S. A. T. C. had its disbandonment, and Merry Christmas chimes had found a welcome in Wesleyan. About this time, through the courtesy of Uncle Sam, director John S. Kellison was returned, a Wesleyan freeman.

With the return of Coach Kellison, Wesleyan stock took a mighty boost, a good schedule was arranged, and many of the strong athletes of "yesterday" shuffled off the khaki and offered themselves as greetings to the drooping spirits of Wesleyan. The season opened with Marietta College on the home floor. The game was one of the best of the season, and resulted in a 39-30 victory for the Orange and Black. Five more home games were played, all of which were won with the exception of the W. & J. bout, which went to the Red and Black. Ten games were played on foreign floors, eight of which were won and two lost. Wesleyan had a team capable of winning the state championship, but no series were played this season to test the winner.

Wesleyan scored 774 points while the opposing tossers garnered 460. Capt. Fisher led his team with 105 field goals and 4 goals from foul, or with a total of 214 points. Hoyt came second, with 86 goals from field and 5 foul goals, or 177 points. Both Fisher and Hoyt scored far more field goals than any other college men in the state this season. Stark's fine work at foul shooting stands as a bright spot of the Methodists' play. Stark shot 99 goals from 128 chances, or 78 per cent of his trials. He also scored 39 field goals during the season.

Capt Fisher's work for Wesleyan was a big factor in the successful season. Fisher, after being kidnapped by the Old Gold and Blue, made his escape therefrom at the beginning of the second semester. He performed brilliantly for Wesleyan and proved a most successful leader.

Beck graced the other corner of the offensive field. Beck scored 61 field goals and played a steady game throughout the year. His work was very meritorious and his services were indispensable to the team.

Hoyt cavorted around the inner circle with much credit. Although not playing his usual game, he nevertheless put up a brilliant fight and added greatly to the success of the five.

Stark's work at guard merits very high praise. His scoring ability, coupled with his wonderful floor game and defensive action, ranks him the best guard in West Virginia basketball today.

Hymes, playing the other guard and performing sensationally on the defense, is largely responsible for holding down the scores of the opposition. His game was consistent, fast, brainy and necessary to Wesleyan's successful season.

Milliron, Hickman, Funk, Lorentz and Miller were other lesser luminaries whose work spelled victory several times for the Orange and Black. These luminaries staged a fine game whenever used by Coach Kellison.

OPPORTUNITY

THE guilt of this word is so great that it should be suppressed. Opportunity should read Opportunities--it is plural. Opportunities are common. The boy who knows how to improve opportunities, his success is assured.

America is alive with opportunities. Opportunities grow on trees, in the sea, in the soil, in the store, in the shop, in the office, in the air.

Opportunities are everywhere!

But!

The man that makes good today must have many factors to his credit---constructive factors. He must have the faculty of the future present to himself---he must have the capacity to see tomorrow today.

He must be ready for the opportunity when it comes---to go ahead and organize the situation, turn it to his own advantage.

Nov. 4—Library closed for repairs. Some of the studious are worrying about reference reading.

Nov. 5—Old Glory floated from the new flag pole in front of the barracks for the first time. Classes in spite of election day.

Nov. 6—Heated political discussion between two suffragets in Prof. Brooks' psychology class.

Nov. 7—Premature celebration. Prof. Cowgill chaperones the Hall girls.

Nov. 8—A calm swept over the school.

Nov. 9—S. A. T. C. "shot."

Nov. 10—Cold, but girls walk on the campus all day. Boys have sore arms.

Nov. 11—A lively time in English III, dueto Orpah Haymond awigglin' a preacher's foot. Armistice signed.

Nov. 12—Everyone participates in celebration of PEACE.

Nov. 13—Lieut. Gaston lifts the lid of the quarantine. Lieut. Horton's bulldog, Mike, aids the bugler at the call to colors.

Nov. 14—Murder on third floor of Ladies' Hall. A mouse comes to an untimely end.

Nov. 15—Pike made a sergeant. Kate happy as a lark.

Nov. 16—Blanche Rice seems to be devoting herself exclusively to a course in Russelism.

Nov. 17—"Peggy" Kelly (bemoaning her fate and displaying a letter), "The only letter I ever wrote to a soldier and it was returned."

Nov. 18—Shortly after Cecile West was heard to express a desire to go to India, Mr. Fortney said, "I want to go to India or wherever you said you were going, Cecile."

Nov. 19—After campusing Bonnie, Lestie and Bee, Miss Smith publicly announced that they were "very nice girls."

Nov. 20—Corporal Dudley is made Instructor in Military Law. We think he should be a very efficient instructor.

Nov. 21—Corporal McWhorter makes a very brilliant recitation in French class when called on to conjugate "flechir."

Nov. 22—Miss Goodenough (on seeing Sergeant Shroyer coming down the walk), "My, hasn't Mr. Stathers improved in looks since he entered the training."

Nov. 23—"Cutie" Gerrard in parade. "Everybody's out of step but me."

Nov. 24—Still we have uniformless soldiers about the campus.

Nov. 25—Heat off. Almost frozen. But Daddy Beck insists on having French classes.

Nov. 26—S. A. T. C. mess hall menus inflicted on Ladies' Hall inmates.

Nov. 27—Sad news for the girls—S. A. T. C. is to be demobilized.

Nov. 28—Big turkey dinner at Hall. "Weinie" exhibits his skill at carving.

Nov. 29—Marie Thurman, in seeing Fatty Hansparger on campus, said, "Girls, is that my husband?"

Nov. 30—Prof. Gotwald forgets to bring his notebook to History I.

DECEMBER

Dec. 1—Daddy Deck informs his class that every cent has a hundred dollars. We would like to match pennies with him if that is so.

Dec. 2—Miss Grimes, when called on to recite in Bible, replies that she doesn't know her lesson because she has two cases on her hands. Watch out, John!

Dec. 3—Puss says that she wishes her face was as good looking as her feet.

Dec. 4—What is the latest case in school? Ask Lynn and Bonnie.

Dec. 5—Vera Reitz accepts her first date with Tommy—but she didn't.

Dec. 6—Polly likes crackers, but we believe he likes Lillian better.

Dec. 7—A sweet voice from the depths of Paradise Alley: "Did you see the mail? Frenchie: "Yes, there wasn't any."

Dec. 8—Prof. Gotwald (in History I): "When did William and Mary become king?"

Dec. 9—Cold weather and bad colds—nothing doing.

Dec. 10—S. A. T. C. farewell banquet. Lieutenants and sergeants condescend to eat with privates.

Dec. 11—News of H. J. Winters' marriage. Despairing looks seen on faces of all the girls.

Dec. 12—Joy! John says that it isn't so at all. Girls, there's a chance yet.

Dec. 13—Kelly established at Wesleyan again. He is living up to his old standard of visiting the Ladies' Hall frequently.

Dec. 14—Advent of cooties at the barracks.

Dec. 15—Ladies' Hall girls stay home from church to finish Christmas presents.

Dec. 16—Prof. Cutright gives agricultural demonstration at chapel.

Dec. 17—Frances appears wearing a diamond. Congratulations!

Dec. 18—Christmas dinner and tree at Hall. S. A. T. C. men conspicuous by their absence.

Dec. 19—"Cases" cut chapel—last chance before vacation.

Dec. 20—Everybody leaves for Christmas vacation except S. A. T. C. boys.

Dec. 21—S. A. T. C. demobilized. Merry Christmas, everybody!

JANUARY

Jan. 7—Students all coming in from vacation. Classes are resumed. Professors happy over fine (?) recitations. No chapel this week on account of repairs being made on auditorium.

Jan. 8—Everybody is settled down now. Boys begin to make their daily visits to the Hall. However, the callers are not so numerous as before the holidays.

Jan. 9—Meade Street beanery subject to riot. Fred J. Funk gives vent to righteous indignation when he learns that it is not a point of necessity to tip the bell girl at the Hall.

Jan. 10—Everybody goes to "Experience," most of them risking 55c for a seat in "Peanut Heaven."

Jan. 11—Recitations show signs of neglected studies. Profs. claims that a little book learning is better than too much Experience, sometimes.

Jan. 12—Sunday, and everyone goes to church.

Jan. 13—Beulah Holtz, in Spanish, translates, "He was a widow." The poor man!

Jan. 14—Nothing doing. Rain all day.

Jan. 15—Chapel again. Much improvement in looks of auditorium.

Jan. 16—Everybody busy at nothing!

Jan. 17—Miss Harding's expression class gives a most entertaining program. The usual crowd was present.

Jan. 18—Literary societies, basketball games, shows and everything.

Jan. 19—Everyone goes to church. Hazel drops the collection plate.

Jan. 20—"Scottie" H. becomes a regular at the Ladies' Hall.

Jan. 21—Nothing happens except more fine weather. Everybody has spring fever.

Jan. 22—Pike McGee does great service for the spectators at basketball practice, but almost gets beaten up in the fray. Third number of the Lecture Course.

Jan. 23—Rain! Cramming is the main order of the day.

Jan. 24—Exams!!!

Jan. 25—Ditto.

Jan. 26—Everyone stays home from church to write up notebooks.

Jan. 27—Everybody sleeps. Vickers goes to the show and sticks his wad of chewing gum on his campaign hat, thinking the hat is the seat.

Jan. 28—Still exams.

Jan. 29—Registration for second semester. Many old students return.

Jan. 30—Delegation leaves for Ohio Wesleyan.

Jan. 31—Paul Holden loses his heart to a pretty Bohemian lassie at Ohio Wesleyan.

FEBRUARY

Feb. 1—We beat Marietta in a fast game.

Feb. 2—Cleo has become a regular caller on Barbour Street. Sympathy, Ben.

Feb. 3—Ladies' Hall girls clean house.

Feb. 4—Miss Alexander reminds us that the Library is for study and not for conversation.

Feb. 5—Guess what happened?

Feb. 6—We walloped D. & E. 60-17.

Feb. 7—John Meredith misses his seat in chapel and sits by a lady. He realizes his mistake, but entirely too late. The result is the Dean's severe reprimand. Next time he may try again.

Feb. 8—Boys and girls change sides in chapel—but there wasn't any.

Feb. 9—Roosevelt Memorial at college. Judge Dayton delivers a wonderful address.

Feb. 10—Varsity team leaves for short trip into Maryland.

Feb. 11—R. O. T. C. voted on by boys. Girls go to church. Boys see "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Feb. 12—Freshies try to start something.

Feb. 13—Back to normal, after Freshman-Sophomore catastrophe of previous day.

Feb. 14—Fairmont Y snowed under.

Feb. 15—Y. M. and Y. W. reception. Everyone has a glorious time.

Feb. 16—We all take a nap.

Feb. 17—Freshie thought it was St. Patrick's Day and wore a green tie.

Feb. 18—Hall girls cut church and go to movies.

Feb. 20—Rain! rain! Boys attend "young women's" Y. M. C. A.

Feb. 21—English XVI class cuts test to "Benny." He accuses Cecile and Margaret of being "ring leaders."

Feb. 22—Babyak attends Student Volunteer Conference (?) at Fairmont. Lots of parties celebrating George s birthday.

Feb. 23—Another quiet Sunday.

Feb. 24—Cecile seen down town without "Bobby"—we can't understand it.

Feb. 25—Profs. give extra long lessons because students wish to attend church.

Feb. 26—Veri Reitz makes brilliant recitation in history?

Feb. 27—Juniors decide to put out a Murmurmontis.

Feb. 28—All two-hour classes meet today.

MARCH

Mar. 1—Another month has passed entirely too fast. A hint of spring.

Mar. 2—Sunday once more, and too fine a day for sleeping late. Everybody goes to church.

Mar. 3—More evidence of spring. Plenty of dates at the Hall. Mr. Hugh Slathers makes a visit to the Hall.

Mar. 4—Sophomores journey to photographers to pose for Murmurmontis. Flo-Flo is the operatic attraction for the day, and is well attended by students and fellows.

Mar. 5—Rain in the morning. Snow at night. Junior class party. Ask Dr. Fleming how he helped to make everyone enjoy the evening.

Mar. 6—Y. M. C. A. Prior to W. & J. game and preparatory for the tournament.

Mar. 7—Day of game. We lose a hard-fought contest, 34-30. No matter; we were just off this evening.

Mar. 8—A few sad faces around the campus. Slight evidence of delinquency in class attendance because of basketball defeat.

Mar. 9—Okey and Scottie take dinner at the Dormitory. Paul carves the chicken.

Mar. 10—Freshmen hold hilarious meeting in mess hall. Miss Goodenough stars.

Mar. 11—More chances for dates to hear Madame de Lys.

Mar. 12—Wesleyan trims Salem, 52-23. Still prospects for dates at the Hall the rest of the week. Everyone anxious for tournament.

Mar. 13—Ralph Bingham.

Mar. 14—Tournament begins. Chapel at 8:30.

Mar. 15—More tournament.

Mar. 16—Tourney crowd leaves town. Most everyone too tired and sleepy to go to church.

Mar. 17—Everyone goes to the St. Patrick's party at the Ladies' Hall. Lots of green things.

Mar. 18—Expression recital—Harsh and Toad star.

March 19—Track team candidates called out. From all appearances we will have some team.

Mar. 20—Prof. Miller leads chapel. Some of the Freshmen and Sophomores very much embarrased when he tells results of intellectual tests tried on them.

Mar. 21—New cases at the hall: Toad and Thelma; Ruth and Howard.

Mar. 22—Lots of big things; Excelsior, Chresto and mostly "The Little Pink Devil."

Mar. 23—Lots of kodaking and scheming going on today.

Mar. 24—Ask the counts and countesses of the Hall which kind of eggs they prefer, fresh or otherwise.

Mar. 25—We are glad to welcome Dr. MacWatters back again. Lady members of the Faculty applaud heartily when he tells us that he escaped from the place of many pretty widows, single.

Mar. 26—Most everyone departs for Spring vacation.

Mar. 27—Paul Davis stays in Buckhannon. He gives as his excuse work on the Murmurmontis, but we believe that he had another motive.

Mar. 28—Lecture course number during a vacation as usual. The student body would like to know why the Lecture Course Committee persists in scheduling entertainments for vacation time.

Mar. 29—Nothing doing.

April 1—Prof. Stutzman has a birthday. Some of us were really surprised.

April 2—Regular schedule resumed. Lots of cuts and nobody prepared. Last number of the lecture course.

April 3—Many go to hear Mme. Schumann-Heink at Clarksburg.

April 4—Miss Goodenough and Prof. Miller late to chapel. Prof. Cowgill almost swears in English XVI.

April 5—Prof. Stutzman and his chemistry class get to chapel in time for the announcements and the benediction. Miss Goodenough stars at Excelsior; preachers shocked.

April 6—Pretty summer day. All the couples go boating or strolling. Bunch of Dorm girls visit poor farm and ask for something to eat.

April 7—College girls Sunday-School Class has a party. Boys have to go to "movies" alone (?).

April 8—Willard Brown elected May Queen. Seniors make first appearance in caps and gowns; they seemed to be in a rush about getting them on. However, they had to take seats behind the Juniors.

April 9—All classes have class meetings and vote to be seated by classes in chapel. Very good so far, but the girls and boys should sit together.

April 10—Mabel demands the return of her shoe in History class. Prof. Miller favors Margaret Workman with a special seat in his class. Oh, Margaret, how the girls do envy you.

April 11—Juniors want to know what business a certain feminine teacher of the Academy has to interfere with college class affairs. Next time we hope that she doesn't get out of her place.

April 12—Alice Thacker, in Browning class: "Prof. Cowgill, does all literature have love in it, or do you just assign us that type?" "Spring is here, Alice. We pardon your direct question."

April 13—Tennerton is becoming a popular resort for students to go "twosing." The river is tempting today. Dr. MacWatters delivers his wonderful address on "The Life of Saint Paul" in the auditorium.

April 14—Leota returns to Buckhannon accompanied by her "hubby," Lieutenant Morris. Hall girls welcome them with yells and cheers.

April 15—Prof. Aspinall, in chapel: "You fellows march into the chapel like hobos and go out the same, or even worse."

April 16—Dr. MacWatters lectures at chapel on Shakespeare. Music recital in the evening a grand success.

April 17—Free at last! The birds are released from their gilded cage. Really Miss Smith, it is cruel to campus the girls during this pretty weather.

April 18—Murmurmontis has been gone to press for a week, and our imagination has gone back on us. Farewell, The 1920 Staff.

THE BUGLER

Special News Service.

Private line to the Ladies' Hall and the Dean's Office.

Special war reporter at all important battles, including the Mead Street Egg Barrage.
Published for the first and last time by the "Association for the Dipping Down and Grasping of the Large Ideas of Modern Literature." Editors name withheld until he has a chance to get out of town.

Entered as good waste paper at the Sand Run Postoffice.

Note:—It might be added right here that you are getting valuable stuff in this paper, even if you don't know it. It was only with the utmost difficulty that some of our leading articles were translated from Socrate's Original Manuscript. The Literary Post and the Saturday Evening Direst offered us $10,000 for one of our poems (see if you can tell which one), but we were steadfast in our purpose to bring before you the best "dipped down" literature of the age, and consequently were not to be persuaded from our lofty ideals by the lure of mere money.

We suggest that this paper be read on Sunday afternoon along with the Classmate and the Sunday paper. A careful study of these columns may furnish you with some valuable ideas for an Epworth League talk, that is, if you don't care what you talk about.

Note Also:—Please, we beg of you, do not feel slighted if there isn't any jokes on you in these columns. It was an oversight on our part and we regret it more than you do. Also, we ask that you don't get "peeved" if there happens to be a joke on you. It probably wasn't true or it wouldn't be in here. But, Dear Reader, if you do get sore, take Soothing Syrup and read the joke again.

KNOCKERS

Did you ever see one of those chronic individuals who are habitually knocking? If, in all your experiences and travels you have not met one of those dyspeptic personages, you should consider yourself lucky and utter a prayer of thanksgiving to the gods above and the demons below. Even if you have never met them, we have them with us and they are the curse of humanity and the bane of our existence. Of course, dear reader, we know that you are not one of those who knock, but we thought perhaps that you might know someone who knew someone else who knew a knocker, and might show this to him.

However, for fear you might not know just what a knocker is, we will tell you of one kind that (it is rumored) is with us. Alright, here goes: Last fall, when, on account of the war, the S. A. T. C. and other abnormal conditions, we deemed it wise not to publish the Murmurmontis, there were many who gave us h—l (h—l means horse laugh, so don't get shocked) and said we were slackers. We tried to be meek and take it all, for you know Shakespeare or somebody said that the meek should inherit the earth, but we fear there is some mistake for we only inherited knocks.

After a time things quited down and the Murmurmontis was seemingly forgotten. This spring, however, we began to hear knocks about not having an annual, so we decided about the first of March to put out a book. The plans were under way and the pictures were being made, when again we heard those subterranean grumblings. "We charged too much for the cuts," so they said. "It wasn't their place to put out a book," we even heard. We admit the cuts did cost too much, but, dear reader, please tell us of something that doesn't cost too much these days. Why, we remember when you could get a chocolate nut sundae for a thin dime. Now it takes a perfectly good quarter! If we had gotten started on our book last fall and contracted for all our engravings, we would probably have gotten them cheaper. But we were late and had to take what we could get and pay what we were asked. So please remember these few things when you criticize us, and let's hope that next year they will get started early and that the Murmurmontis of '21 will be the best ever published by any class.

Therefore, be a booster and not a knocker. Throw away your hammer and buy a horn, and if you can't buy one swipe it from some Ford.

SPRING

We have to write another editorial to fill out this page, so we will take for our subject, "Spring." For you know that it is in the Springtime when a professor's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of flunking. Maybe you never noticed it, but it is true nevertheless. Just as soon as the evenings begin to get nice and warm, and especially after the time is turned up, it is impossible to make a good grade. Who could stay in on one of those wonderful spring nights after the trees have burst forth in their Easter cloaks, when darkness softly settles down and the silvery moon floods the campus with its radiant splendor? On such a night it is impossible to concentrate one's mind within the confines of the four walls of a room. The gods themselves could not resist, for Spring is that enticing spirit of life and love and holds all in her embrace.

"Yet, ah, that Spring should vanish with the Rose!
That Youth's sweet-scented manuscript should close!"

Yes, alas, it is true, and in the Spring a professor's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of flunking.

Guess Who?

You all know this person, I ween,
I'll not tell you just who I mean.
"No chapel," he said,
Once when he was mad,
Now, of course, you all know it's our
——.

It's a good enough subject, oh yes.
Our athletic teacher? you guess.
We listen each day
To hear her voice say,
Attention! Chest up! and Right Dress!

She feeds us orations galore,
And begs us to swallow some more,
We beg your parding,
We're not rude, Miss ——,
But don't break us down, we implore.

We've a lady teacher so tall,
It would take her an hour to fall.
But English she's skilled in,
So our work she just fills in,
And we're flunked if we don't get it all.

I'll tell you a story of one
Who thought she would hunt up some fun.
She decided to try
A French frog-leg fry,
And that was the last of Miss ——.

We love our Professor of French,
Who pounds with his fists on the bench.
When we take our last look
At that "blue little book,"
We never can say " 'twas a cinch."

For the ladies he cares not a fig,
So very modest is our Professor ——.
Though the girls smile,
It's not worth their while,
He would much prefer them to "dig."

Do you hear that noise so buzzy?
It's the voice of Professor ——.
His throat has a tickle,
I bet you a nickle
He doesn't call that singing, does he?

There's a Professor named ——,
Who studied the stars of the night.
"If meteors can fly
Why in the dickens can't I,"
He said, and I think he was right.

She's dean of the Ladies' Hall,
For the fellows she surely can fall.
"You must go now, young men,
It's near half-past ten,"
Is ever her tiresome call.

A most learned man in books,
Indeed is Professor ——.
He wins every fight
For his methods are right,
But you wouldn't think it from his looks.

There was a Professor named "Benny,"
Who possessed unusual wit.
You've read works of Grey's,
And seen Shakespeare's plays,
But just see the work he has writ!

The subject can scarcely be found,
On which he can not expound.
"Did the whale swallow Jonah?
It may be I don't know,"
Says he, "and I don't care a hound."

We have a Prof. whose head is near bald,
You know in a moment it is not but ——.
He looks with a smile
At his watch a while,
And says, "Young people, that's all."

An Episode from the East

TWAS a Wednesday at dusk, the balmy breezes inflated the curtains at the window and wafted them out into the open air. Spring was everywhere in evidence, the grass was green and so were the frogs that croaked in the distance; gardens were dimly seen with rich unturned soil and green shoots of future delicious vegetables peeping out of their cozy beds, but the surest sign of all was a white dress in company with a young man, the most stylish he-male who sallied forth under a straw hat, twittering in a manner comparable only to the other birds in the treetops. From the retreat of the window-seat Tessie was heard to exclaim, with heart-rending longing, "Oh, how I wish that we could only be out tonight. It's no use, though, to even think of asking to go out on Wednesday night."

Enter Gloom upon the scene, and behind Gloom, Temptation. Temptation whispers "Run off," but Prudence reminds Tessie of her duty and the risk in slipping out. There is a subdued rush of hasty preparation, a powdering of noses, a blush of youth and excitement evenly placed on either cheek; then suddenly—silence. Two silent figures wend their perilous way down the creaking stairs that before squealed only at intervals, but which now groan at each advancing step and try in their humble way to warn the unsuspecting Preceptress, Mademoiselle Jackson, who calmly reads on, believing that all is going splendidly. At last the door is reached, only half a dozen steps more or less, and all will be well! Carefully, slowly, slyly, cleverly, the door swings open and silently aids in the escape. But what is that, surely an ominous-looking figure is approaching by the center walk. It is the carriage and appearance of the Assistant Preceptress, better known among the "inmates" as "Sis Hopkins." Horrors upon horrors, and still more horrors!! All may be already lost. Like the crooks they have so often seen at the movies, our two adventurers slink into the shadow of a neighboring tree, and there in breathless anxiety await their discovery or their safety. Nearer, yet nearer, comes the figure, the only visible obstacle between the fugitives and a glorious time.

The day of miracles has not passed—a cautious peep around the trunk of the tree discloses a jaunty young man in Sunday-best, with an individual sidewise tilt to his hat, gaily directing his footsteps toward the idol of his affections, Jane, a member of the Fraternity of Kitchen Mechanics. Relief, sweet and complete, permeates the whole atmosphere, while the two figures, fleet as deer, rapidly flee across the campus and down the main thoroughfare to the sanctum of the motion pictures. The first reel was "reely" pathetic, the second more animated, but the third began—"Be sure your sins will find you out." Nervous chills and qualms of conscience begin to make themselves felt in the rear row of seats, and two of the audience begin preparations for departure. But now the worst is over—a comedy sends the populace into fits of laughter. Fears and doubts are forgotten and happiness reigns supreme. Never was a sundae so delicious as those served at A. D. Olds that night; never were there so many funny incidents, so much pep or such a perfect evening.

Luckily the moon alone sheds forth its pale rays over Mother Earth. The refugees succeeded in passing one member of the Faculty in safety, but not so the second, whose eagle eye misses no misdemeanor, however slight. In imitation of Sherlock Holmes, he commences to work out a plan so that by taking a short-cut, he can come out face to face with the offenders. Fear-stricken and trembling, Tessie and her chum divine his act and rush helter-skelter through a vacant lot and into a chicken pen. With a chorus of variations all the chickens squawk their remonstrances, bringing not only the owner of the feathered folk, but also their pursuer, who was ploughing through the mud and mire of a near-by alley. Quick thinking and alertness enabled them to climb the obstructing fence, wade through the mud and put a patch of briers and stones between them and their pursuers. But still do the pursuers pursue and the fleers flee.

Sweet haven of rest—the dormitory looms protectingly on the horizon and now 'tis only a question of a safe entrance into one of the cozy, little rooms. Time flies; only five minutes are left till the doors will be locked. In haste the schemers near the main door—no chance there, for guests of Mademoiselle Jackson are just leaving, so stealthily they turn the corner and slip in through one of the doors in the conservatory, peep into the hall to make sure that all is well along the Potomac, and begin their ascent to the realms above, where all is peaceful and quiet. One flight of steps is mounted in safety, but alas, as they near the second landing a firm hand is laid on each girl's shoulder and an uncompromising voice decrees thus:

"Young ladies, you have been out without permission. Not one word. You are campused for two weeks. The next offense will call forth a more severe punishment"—et cetera, and so on, the same old story, effective and awful, that is awe-inspiring.

Tessie's soliloquy after the battle is over: "Such a wonderful night; such excitement; so many thrills; we got caught, but it was worth it."

"Booze," '21.

DID IT EVER OCCUR TO YOU HOW STRANGE IT WOULD BE IF—

Orpha Haymond had nothing to say.
Professor Cowgill forgot his "Powder-puff."
The girls didn't love Wienie.
Rats Matheny should begin to grow.
Bonnie should learn to dance.
Casey should develop into a flirt.
Lynn Rohrbough didn't know everything.
Rosetta Sprowls had a date.
If Virginia Paterson made a B.
Alice Thacker run down.
Paul Harshbarger forgot to ask questions.
Miss Smith retired before 1:00 p. m.
Leslie Roberts had a regular girl.
Alice (Professor) Miller could find a Wesleyan student as bright as Temple University students.
Ruby liked Winter (John) better than Summer.
"Fatty" would become as slim as Rev. Caldicott.
"Mosey" curled her hair except when "C. B." comes.
Forest Douglas didn't know more in War Aims than everybody else, including the Prof.
Ruth Grimes was seen without John Turner.
We had a chapel without Miss Goodenough's announcement.

At Any Hour of the Day

The Senior Class

Long may you live, O Seniors!
But after you collapse,
The future Wesleyan students
Will read these epitaphs.

MEREDITH

Here lies our worthy president!
Alas! Where has he gone?
Ten thousand ladies of the land
In tears mourn for their John.

FALLON

"Confusion now hath made his mas'erpiece."

HOLTZ

Oh! Beulah, 'tis in agony
We mourn thy fate;
Why could not death have spared us thee
For thine own sweet sake?

HUNTER

Our lovely Mae
Has passed away!
O woeful day.

CUTLIP

Sing, song, sigh!
Cutlip had to die.
He thought the stuff was mushrooms
It was a toadstool pie.

DURST

Oh bellman toll that bell!
Oh cruel news and curst!
The pickles at the Ladies' Hall
Have just completed Durst.

McCLELLAN

Here lies the wife of Pete Calac,
She left the world and won't come back.

ARBUTHNOT

I cannot say, I will not say,
That she is dead; she's just away.

HOLDEN

Yet Riley said, "A good man never dies."

BUTCHER

Ashes to ashes, dust to dust,
Death had to take this man or bust.
Here let us pause to shed a tear.
No greater gem was found
Nor one more priceless than our Pearle
Now 'neath the cold dark ground.

CALDICOTT

"This was the noblest senior of them all."

CARPENTER

The saddest words that e're were said,
Are just these three, "Simon is dead."

BLAKE

There was a man whose name was Blake,
The doctor's pills he wouldn't take.
He couldn't stay, he had to go,
Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

HARTLEY

Alpha Hartley, always first,
As her very name implies,
Was first to reach the earthly goals,
And first to reach the skies.

E. HARTLEY

Ah, give me many kerchiefs more,
'Ere I complete my tale.
Alpha's death shocked Betty so,
That she, too, kicked the pail.

ENGLE

He had lived long enough;
His way of life had fallen into the sear,
the yellow leaf.

MCCALLY

A young, a gallant youth, was he,
For him the ladies ran;
With grief we learn that he is gone,
Another ladies' man!

WOLVERTON

A tall and stately dame was she,
Perfect in every feature,
She died from nervousness, for she
Was a busy toiling teacher.

PROUDFOOT

Once Wesleyan had a Fierpied,
Now sad to say the dame is dead.

GRIMES

Death closed her mild blue eyes,
Under this sod she lies.
Ne'er shall the sun arise
On such another.

LIGGET

Tread softly on this spot,
The earth has just been piled,
But yesterday we buried her,
Ambition's darling child.

IN FRENCH I

Written January 9, 1919, after demobilization of S. A. T. C. boys.
(Author's name withheld.)

This French Class is very dreary
And I'm feeling Oh, so weary;
My head is drooping low,
And I know that I shall go
Sound asleep.

Now I'm drifting far away
And dreams of yesterday are coming;
I can see the soldiers climbing
Up the stairs one at a time,
While I sit in French Class
Sound asleep.

There's one face I see more clearly,
And I love it very dearly;
How I wish this sleep was yearly,
And I could spend my time or nearly
Sound asleep.

Prof. Miller says that a joke is like a neat ankle; it has to be seen to be appreciated. We hope that you can see these.

John Meredith tells us that the first sigh of love is the last sigh of wisdom. Well, if experience counts for anything, he ought to know.

First Girl: "Pup Daniels is an awful ladies' man.
Second girl: "I believe it. I've seen him with some awful ones."

At the boarding house.
Musgrave: "The very idea, my napkin is damp."
Lilly: "Perhaps that's because there is so much due on your board."

They started in a purely platonic way reading Browning together—now they are engrossed in a book that tells how to build a $4000 bungalow.

Prof. Cowgill: "Who is your favorite author, Miss Haymond?"
Orpha: "My father."
Prof.: "Why, what does he write?"
Orpha: "Checks."

Prof. Aspinall: "Why are the children of India born babies?" Curtis gives him the horse laugh, whereupon "Dick" makes the remark that you can always tell the breed by the bray.

Cleo: "Gosh! It sure is raining some."
Inez: "Never mind; take father's umbrella and perhaps he won't mind so much your coming back!"

Egbert McWhorter buys a pair of shoes and charges them to the account of C. W. Flesher. He said he thought it was altogether proper, as he wears them only in going to the latter's house.

Noah pulled this one in the Ark, but still you fall for it.

Dorothy: "What a finely chiseled mouth Dudley has. It ought to be on a girl's face."
Velma: "It is, pretty often."

Orin Curtis, on being asked the other day why he changes girls so often, informed us its not his fault, but the girls', as they are always changing fellows. How about it, Curtis?

Miss Smith (at lunch): "Looks like rain."
Jess (eating soup): "Tastes like it, too."

To give them 70 is only human,
But to flunk 'em, that's divine.—Cowgill.

Prof. Cutright (in Agriculture): "Miss Creg, where do bugs go in the winter?"
Faith: "Search me."

Miss Neptune (in English): "Miss Dawson, you may decline a kiss grammatically."
Miss Dawson: "I guess I would call it a conjunction which I have never yet declined.

Lillian Alkire: "If this weather keeps up I'll get lazy."
Prof. Bohanan: "Well, it wouldn't be noticeable, would it?"

Wienie says he sees no reason why the state should not support him over at Weston. Neither do we.

This conversation between John Turner and Ruth was accidentally overhead in the Library, where much of their time is spent:
"My ideal of a wife is one who can make good bread."
"My ideal of a husband is one who can raise the dough in the hour of knead."

Tisdale was painting the roof of his house one day when all of a sudden he began to slip and slide rapidly down the roof. He was frightened and cried, "Oh! Lord, save me!—Never mind, I caught on a nail."

Prof. and Mrs. Cowgill are living over on Barbour Street.
It is reported that they have been fighting for a better appreciation of Shakespeare.

Marie: "Have you amused the baby and kept him quiet while I was gone?"
Al: "Yes, Marie, and he hasn't opened his mouth since you went away."
Marie: "What did you do to amuse him, Al?"
Al: "I gave him the mucilage bottle to suck."

Bonnie Ray: "What is the best way to preserve a good complexion?"
Frenchie: "I don't know a better way than keeping the jars airtight."

Miss Harding was having trouble in getting one of her scenes in the Junior recital right. Lillian Ligett was supposed to resist an attempt to kiss her, but the results were far from satisfactory.

"Think, now," said Miss Harding, coaching her, "haven't you ever tried to stop a young man from kissing you?"

"No," was Lillian's reply.

CAN YOU IMAGINE WHAT HAPPENED THEN?

Mrs. Gotwald: "Dearest, do you know you haven't kissed me for six weeks?
Prof. Gotwald: "Good Heavens! Then whom have I been kissing?"

Freshie: "What did that Liberty Loan woman shut her eyes for when she sang in chapel this morning?"
Soph: "Because she couldn't bear to see us suffer, I suppose."

Miss Goodenough says that you can't be beautiful and wear high-heeled shoes. We don't mean to insinuate anything, but it wouldn't be a bad idea for some of us to go barefooted.

Mr. Deem (to his son "Red," who was showing him around the campus): "Son, I heard that every foot around these parts was historical."
"Red" (as co-ed goes by): "Yes, and some of the ankles, Father."

The Quiet Half Hour

WHO would think, on taking a periscopal view of that primitive bunch of Faculty members, sitting so prim on the Rostrum some morning at chapel time, that in that modest little band are degrees and orders ranging everywhere from zero to a hundred and ten? But the fact remains nevertheless that such is the fact, and we, the student body, are proud of our rulers in the main. It is true of course that there must be some black sheep in even the best of families, but we are prone to view only that side of the magisterial characteristics of our beloved leaders—and not too seldom persecutors—which lends an optimistic color to their appearance.

I can see them now—Oh! how plain is the vision—as they sit with folded arms and sad but commanding countenances on that throne of grace and endeavor individually to keep from lapsing into the realms of slumberland while one of their degreed members tries with might and main to make a speech interesting enough that the dumfounded student audience may not pass entirely into an unappreciative mass of babbling tongues. We know how to sympathize with them, for it must be a hard task to say things that will keep us interested from day to day, week after week, month upon month, year, even for years; and if the Higher Ones do not intervene, the poor mistreated body of martyrs with assigned pews may have to sit and be speeched at by the Faculty for centuries.

However, we take all this in good understanding, for we know that with all those Ph. D.'s and A. M.'s and R. S. P. U. Q.'s there must be a lot of knowledge stored up somewhere. And it seems that they have to get rid of it somehow. Therefore since a student cannot assimilate all the knowledge of a professor by class-room co-operation, the added catastrophe must be endured till there are no more Faculties or till we, the undersigned, have grown into facultyhood and have taken our places on some glorious platform to persecute in our turn those who cannot help it. But, we hope and pray never to be so entirely unmerciful as our own beloved superiors.

It is indeed quite amusing to watch this straggling bunch of unherded lambs as they wander into the auditorium at ten some morning after a joyous night of selfish festivity which seems to be their most liked procedure. With slow and measured tread each member comes groping forth from the stale air of classroom to the chilly atmosphere of chapel hall, and, grasping a hymnal, seats himself wherever his desires may suggest, moaning peacefully over some childhood experience or past college affairs. There he sits in company with the rest of the said Faculty, who in a like manner have sauntered in, and have gone invariably through the same seating motions. And so with half closed and dreamy eyes they sit looking neither to right nor left till the tedious half hour is over, and we, the students, may have two minutes of comfort and enjoyment.

We often wonder, on gazing on our dear professors, what thoughts, if any, pass through their shiny pates during the lonesome half hour. And we should wish a little that some Utopian fancy could pierce a little of their gray matter and they could see just how we feel. If such a thing should ever happen, we fear that there would be a revolution—and goodbye, Mr. Faculty! It would be our wish to change places with them for a mere half hour. We should like in realization of their Utopian dreams, to seat our dear selves on the raised platform and speech at the Faculty for the aforesaid space of time. If at the end of this time there were no changes made in the manner of doing things, we could, of course, be satisfied to bear with this the rest of our lives. But where there is life we realize there is always hope. There seems to be left but little life in our dear ones, but in that one thread we hold our hope that some day there will be an awakening. And when it does come, there will certainly be a change. Let come what may, we have stood it in the past and we can still be martyrs of the faith. But we believe in liberty, now and forever, one and inseparable! And while we cannot fulfill our belief at present, by the aid of the outside world, in justification of our own persecution, we are living with great expectations ahead. And when our plans are developed, let it be said of our persecutors, "They have fought a good fight, but justice has conquered might."—AMEN.

GUESS WHO!

Love ! ! ! What ? ?

HARKEN, FRESHIE!

Love and Springtime! Yet how impossible it really is to link these two words together by a mere conjunction! How incomparable and what a wide contrast between the two from the standpoint of public sentiment! Just because Spring is here, Freshie, don't get it into your head that you need express your sentimental tendencies to the fair young ladies who have a similar turn of mind. Remember that Wesleyan has greater things in store for you and you must take advantage of your opportunities, because we older students realize that you are not yet ripe to mingle with the deeper things of life. We insist that you no longer list' to the enticing love carols of some c-h-i-c-k-e-n-s. Think of your golden opportunity! Reject, for the time being, the green leaves, the blossoms, and the warm sunny weather and the singing and the loving that all come back together. Beware, Freshie! Love is the most powerful of all spells. Once a young student indulges in it, "so long" college career. Love is a thing that cannot be analyzed in the chemistry laboratory, and remember that you are here to solve things that are analyzable. The consciousness of real love will come to you later on. Don't be afraid of starving for love's caress! The world was beginning to think that the war had changed everything, even love, but our college beginners have already spoiled the entire program. Surely, then, the war has not changed the popular thoughts of love. One can hardly refrain from smiling when he thinks of the many mirthful comedies that have taken place under his concealed presence. Useless to hide, Freshie! Everybody is interested enough in you to watch your step. It can be seen very clearly through the eyes of a disinterested loveless student just what is taking place in the coo-ey alcoves and shaded recesses of Wesleyan's love-hall. In this new cottage, one can easily discover wherein the springy love falls far short from the lovely Springtime. The love found there is light, airy, and imaginative and even so inflated that equipped with a pair of wings it would outfly the best aeroplane on the market and would easily coo the London Mail Prize Money. The ideal that craves this love is usually a fluffy little sprite that dances merrily and treads lightly, yet very heavily upon the tender emotions of our Freshmen manhood. Poor fellows!! Blindness, although not inherited in this instance, surely is adaptable. This fact is seen in the rapid movement that is spreading throughout the younger set. Many of our youthful prospects are walking boldly toward the precipice over which they are bound to leap. When the final plunge is made it will terminate in a routine of eight hours hard labor in the shop; eight hours more in entertaining the sprite; and the rest of the day in trying to frame excuses to get out of the rash promises made when love pulled hardest and overpowered the rational faculty. Couples can be seen going to and from this new love-hall at all hours. Those, who are not seated in cupid's tight little sofas, are out in the garden. How they walk and what they must talk! Finally, on the lane to the realm of loveland they roam and no doubt the world would be amazed if it could hear the sentimental outbursts accompanying them. For instance, it's so soothin' and appealin' to me! Shall I compare thee to a summer's day? Surely thou art more lovely, and more temperate! Just look how the birdies pair and the squirrelies duet! Don't you think it would be romantic for us to attempt something strange and daring? Usually there is trouble to pay then, because the Dean of Women is always on the job. It is wonderful to behold the dashing boldness and chivalry of some of our Freshies. Some of them say, in McCarthy's words:

"If I were a king—ah, love, if I were a king!
What tributary nations would I bring,
To stoop before your sceptre and to swear
Allegiance to your eyes and lips and hair!
Beneath your feet what treasures would I fling:—
The stars would be your pearls upon a string,
The world a ruby for your finger ring,
And you should have the sun and moon to wear—
If I were a king.

You, Mr. Freshie, are in danger! Would you assume such a tottering throne? Truly some would call thee king, but more fitting thou would be a servant bound up in the narrow limitations of a love that has captivated you; that has produced empty-headedness; and that has played havoc with your school work. Please, do not fall? Do not tarry round the love-hall until you are disturbed by a cow-bell. It may be the preliminary toll of warning which might culminate in the death knell. Dig in! Love—real love—is too big a thing to undertake at your point in college life. There are some large ideas yet in the college curriculum for you to grasp. Would that those, to whom this article applies, might start in anew and prepare themselves with available opportunities so that, when the consciousness of real love does come, they will know how to love, honor, and obey it.

Careful and thorough Examination made of Patients who come to the Hospital

Surgery is a Specialty

When notified we will meet patients at the depot with ambulance or cab. Come any day, but when convenient come on Monday, Wednesday or Friday by 6:00 p. m.

Our Training School offers exceptional advantages to young ladies desiring to become trained nurses. Particulars given on the subject to those interested.

Write to the above hospital.

BELL TELEPHONE NOS. 40 AND 387

Something we never hear: A Methodist Minute Man who can stop talking at the end of five minutes.

Prof Aspinall: "The father of the prodigal son fell on his neck and wept. What did he weep for?"
Scotty: "I guess you would weep, too, if you fell on your neck."

Clippings

September 15, 1935.

Among our new Faculty members we welcome Prof. Raymond Deck—instructor in Modern Language. Prof. Deck has proved his worth at other institutions and we hope that he will be like "Daddy."

November 2, 1932.

Mr. Thurman Andrew, who has recently been put in charge of the local light plant, has revolutionized it and the city now has as good service as any city in the state. That's the way Wesleyan "grads" do things.

February 2, 1925.

Rev. John Winters recently visited us and make a brief talk in chapel, his subject being "Wesleyan as I saw it and How Wesleyan saw me." Humor abounded throughout the latter part of his talk.

June 15, 1940 (Wheeling Intelligencer).

Mr. Ernest L. Beck has just recently been appointed general manager of a prominent steel mill at Bellaire, Ohio. Beck first appeared in the limelight in West Virginia as an athlete of exceptional ability at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

September 15, 1930.

Hess & Lowther, Engineers, have been secured to complete the road construction outside the city. Both are former students (?) of Wesleyan.

May 5, 1928.

"Weinnie" Strathers took a crowd out on a Weinnie Roast recently. He had some little "Schaffers" with him.

November 15, 1935.

Abe Fisher is now operating a large department store at Canton, Ohio. We knew you would do it, "Abe."

January 4, 1930 (New York Sun).

Mrs. D. K. Shroyer, instructor in dancing at the Grand Central Palace, has just evolved a new step which is proving to be the hit of the season. Good for "Ada"—it will be remembered that she tripped the light fantastic a good deal in her spare time at Wesleyan.

May 1, 1940.

"Bud" Thurman, son of "Al" Thurman, a former student here, is creating quite a hit as pitcher this year. He says he's a good baseball player—he doesn't have to prove it—he admits it. A chip off the old block.

July 4, 1928.

We are very sorry indeed to hear that one of our former students, Vera Reitz, is in the sanatorium at Weston. She acted queer when she was with us, but no one ever dreamed of it ending thus.

December 10, 1925.

The revival meetings just ended with marvelous results. The great evangelist, Rev. Casey, had charge of the meetings, and all who attended were inspired.

April 1, 1929 (Film Fun).

Miss Neptune, formerly of the English Department of West Virginia Wesleyan College, has at last discovered her calling and is making a big hit in the new version of "Neptune's Daughter," released by the Artcraft Company. It will be remembered that Miss Annette Kellerman formerly starred in this picture.

June 3, 1940.

The first commencement dance was held last evening in the gymnasium, and a large crowd attended. Instructor in dancing, Abe Lilly, gave some exhibition dances during the course of the evening. He is indeed a master of the art.
